Our Purpose

Anglo American is re-imagining mining to improve people's lives.

Mining has a safer, smarter future – a future where you may barely notice some mines at all. We are increasingly using remote or automated technologies to keep all our people safe and we are planning for a future where new mines are being developed out of sight and deep underground – to reliably and responsibly provide many of the precious metals and minerals our modern society needs for improving living standards and food security in a cleaner, greener and decarbonising world.

Our Values

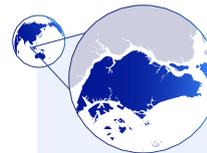

Singapore is Anglo American's largest commercial hub – and home to our Marketing business.

Our Marketing teams are instrumental to maximising the value from our mineral resources and trading activities for the benefit of all our stakeholders. By understanding, addressing, and anticipating our customers' specific needs, we are taking an active role in building customised solutions and bringing them to the market.

Whether from our portfolio of high-quality and long-life resource assets or through complementary third-party production, we provide a reliable supply of essential natural resources. Our offering includes a broad range of integrated product solutions that are:

- Tailored to our customers' specific needs.
- Responsibly produced, sourced and delivered.
- Complemented by high quality service support.

Our shipping operations

Based out of Singapore, our shipping team is focused on ensuring safe, reliable and sustainable ocean freight, efficiently connecting our products with our customers.

We have built a strong Shipping presence across the Cape, Panamax and the Geared segments, servicing not only Anglo American mines but customers all around the world. Operating under Anglo American's Marketing business, the shipping team has presence in London, Singapore, Chile and South Africa, and operates up to 70 Dry Bulk vessels at any one time, including 11 dual-fuel Capesize+ vessels. We move over 80mt of dry bulk product and execute over 600 voyages a year. Above all, the Shipping business is built on shipping products safely, reliably and sustainably to our customers.
